

Instructor/Assistant Professor
Critical Care Nursing
(9-month, Non-Tenure Track)

Samford University's Moffett & Sanders School of Nursing invites individuals interested in serving in a Christian university environment to submit an application for a full-time, nine-month faculty position. The successful candidate will be appointed as a non-tenure track Instructor or Assistant Professor, depending upon experience and qualifications. Responsibilities as a faculty member include teaching, scholarly activity, and service. The individual hired in this position will be responsible for classroom teaching, clinical supervision, and simulation of undergraduate nursing students in courses with critical care content. The position may be associated with two or more courses each semester depending on need. The person filling this position must be willing to work days, evenings, and occasional weekends as need dictates.

Qualified candidates will hold a master's degree in nursing from a CCNE, CNEA, or ACEN accredited school of nursing, hold an unencumbered RN license in the state of Alabama and have a clear background check. An earned doctoral degree in nursing is required for the rank of Assistant Professor. Candidates must have a minimum of five years of critical care clinical practice experience within the last 10 years. Previous teaching experience, including clinical supervision of undergraduate students is preferred.

The College of Health Sciences is an innovative initiative for Samford University. The college includes four schools: Moffett & Sanders School of Nursing, McWhorter School of Pharmacy, School of Health Professions and School of Public Health. The college offers multiple degree programs and majors within the health sciences with an interprofessional education focus that reflects today's team approach to health care delivery and professional practice. The college affords faculty special opportunities for cross-disciplinary collaboration.
